The ACA works for you.

Connect with local paddlers.

Easy access to safe, enjoyable paddling opportunities is one of ACA's top tenets.

Connect

The ACA supports more than 150 Paddle America Clubs across the U.S. Find resources to connect with a local club, or start your own, at americancanoe.org.

Recreation

Whether you kayak, canoe, or raft, the American Canoe Association promotes the health benefits of paddling and plays an active role in local and national recreational events and competition.

The popularity of paddlesports grows rapidly each year, with new paddlers entering the sport at varied skill levels. It's estimated that as many as 50 million people participate in the sport each year.

The American Canoe Association Water Trails Explorer is the nation's most comprehensive online directory of water trails. Whether you're looking for a leisurely paddle or a challenging coastal exploration, you'll find authoritative resources at americancanoe.org.

Education

The ACA is the nation's leader in paddlesport education and instruction. With more and more people entering the sport at varied levels of ability, our educational curriculum addresses a diverse range of participation.

We reach out to young people through multiple programs, including the Collegiate Outdoor & Paddlesport Leadership School, college-level events, and Paddle Safe, Paddle Smart—a national curriculum designed to introduce school children to the joys and skills of paddling a canoe or kayak.

Today there are more than 4,000 ACA-certified instructors around the world reaching hundreds of thousands of people each year. Our publications are written and edited by world paddling experts.

Stewardship

Easy access to safe, enjoyable paddling opportunities is one of the ACA's top tenets. Our stewardship program focuses on clean and healthy waterways, paddler access, and full funding for water resource protection.

The ACA also advocates for paddler-friendly policies on state and federal regulatory issues such as boat registration and boater education.

Our advocacy and stewardship activities take place everywhere from local neighborhoods to Capitol Hill—from support of grassroots campaigns to build and maintain water trails to influencing federal policy on access and enjoyment of recreational waterways.

Safety

We are the nation's leading paddlesport safety advocates. The ACA introductory- through master-level instruction programs are second to none, and our publications and brochures reach hundreds of thousands of paddlers annually.

Staff members of the American Canoe Association work closely with the U.S. Coast Guard to ensure both newcomers and experienced paddlers understand and practice the safest techniques.

In addition to working with industry partners to reach the millions of people who canoe, kayak, and raft each year, the ACA pioneered the online paddling safety course, iPaddleOnline.com with one goal in mind: to ensure your experiences on the water are rewarding and safe.

National Paddlesports Center

The ACA is in the process of designing and building a world-class facility for paddlesports. For more information, call 540.907.4460, ext. 107, and visit our website often for updates on the project.

Many Ways to Help

Your membership supports essential ACA programs. You may also consider a memorial or tribute gift, a bequest, or the Combined Federal Campaign (#10412). Ask your employer if they provide matching gifts.
